The Five Pillars of Islam are the most important beliefs and practice of Islam and those with Muslim worldviews usually try to keep them:

- Shahadah (declaration of one God-Allah- and his prophet Muhammad (PBUH))
- Zakat (giving)
- Sawm (fasting)
- Salat (prayers)
- Hajj (pilgrimage to Mecca)

Those with Muslim worldviews can learn how to live well from the Qur'an (the Muslim holy book). Muslims usually believe that the Angel Gibril revealed the Qur'an to Muhammad (PBUH) and it is God's word.

Those with Muslim worldviews often gather at the local mosque/masjid.

The Aqeeqah is an act of worship many Muslims perform when a baby is born. Meat is usually served and the baby is named.

Those with Muslim worldviews believe in one God they refer to as 'Allah'.

The Qur'an contains 99 Beautiful Names of Allah that provide insights into what God is like for those with Muslim worldviews. These are often written in beautiful calligraphy.

Muslim women and girls might choose to wear a hijab but they might not. In the UK they can make their own decisions about clothing.

Ramadan is a month of fasting (no food or water during daylight hours) many Muslims choose to undertake for its spiritual benefits. At the end of Ramadan, Eid-al-Fitr is celebrated.

A common belief amongst those with Muslim worldviews is that only Allah is perfect and can create perfectly. Islamic artistic expressions are represented through calligraphy and geometric patterns.

'Ummah' is an Arabic word meaning 'community' which is central for many with Muslim worldviews. The Five Pillars are different ways those with Muslim worldviews can practice ummah together in service of Allah.

Sawm is about giving and charity and hajj is a special pilgrimage to Mecca.

Tawhid is a term meaning the oneness of God and that there is no God but Allah.

Many people with Muslim worldviews pray 5 times a day.

Ibrahim is an important person in Muslim worldviews. Many of the stories in the Qur'an and the Bible/Torah are similar.

For many with Muslim worldviews, Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) is an inspirational person and through Sunnah and Hadith Muslims can learn how to live a good life.

In many Muslim worldviews, the concept of 'heaven' or 'paradise' is an important part of life after death.

Ijtihad is an Arabic term meaning 'struggle with reasoning' used to interpret the Qur'an, Hadith and Sunnah.
